1. Description

Good assessment programs aim to provide a balanced and fair evaluation of each and every student. The institution creates an environment for the students in which they use variety of strategies, tasks and demonstrate what they know and can do. These tasks in form of assessment tasks develop several important higher-order thinking skills. The institution also enables the teachers to know a full repertoire of teaching learning approaches and exams help to achieve this. Exams promote the deep, rich and authentic assessment which is reflected in the form of pass percentage. The whole process of examination eventually improves learning and develops an ability to take on new information.
